ABOUT ME

Accountant turned programmer.

Technology is the future and I realized I had to quickly adapt to our world. I have become determined to learn software development and I have taken the next step for my career by applying for Adalab's program. This career change has helped me innovate my previous professional experience to another field.

I consider myself a versatile person and I am motivated to learn as much as I can. I would love the opportunity to continue to learn in this tech journey and, given the opportunity, support and mentor other peers, as I have done in my previous professional role. I would love to demonstrate my capabilities and be able to add my attitude component which I can offer to your company.

Now is time to code. Let's push it! 🚀
